

Two More Loyola Alumni Give Lives On World Battlefronts

Two more Loyola College alumni have been recently reported killed in action.

Lieutenant Lindsay C. Spencer, Jr., '39, was killed in action in France on July 16. He was serving with the Infantry during the invasion of Europe.

Lieutenant (s.g.) George W. Schuncke, Jr., '41, was killed in action in the Pacific theatre in the early part of July. At the time, his plane was based on a carrier in the Pacific.

Graduated Cum Laude

While at Loyola, Lt. Spencer was an excellent student, having an aptitude for both classical and scientific studies. At his graduation in June, 1939, he received his A. B. degree cum laude.

He had a wide interest in the extracurricular activities of the school, being an active member of the Sodality of the Blessed Virgin, the History Academy, the Chemists Club, and the Social Science Club. He was also Associate Editor of the Yearbook.

Was Active In Sports

Lt. Spencer displayed the same interest in athletics. He was a member of the baseball squad during his four years at Loyola, and was also a hunting enthusiast. While a student here he worked at St. Mary's Seminary at Roland Park.

Lt. Spencer enlisted in the Army in February, 1942, and was commissioned a Second Lieutenant in August of that year upon completion of his training at Fort Benning, Georgia. He was stationed in North Ireland for eight months prior to the invasion of France. His last letter was received on July 7, just nine days before his death. Lt. Spencer's brother, Staff Sergeant Charles D.

Dean Schedules Semester Tests

The schedule for the mid-year examinations has been announced by the Office of the Dean. They will begin on next Thursday, October 5, and end on October 11.

The mid-term recess will begin on October 12, and classes will be resumed on October 23. This will mark the end of the term which began on July 17.

All examinations will be of two hours duration and proctors have been assigned by the Office of the Dean.

These will be the first examinations for the new Freshman Class. Under the present accelerated course, there are four terms in a year and every term is 12 weeks long.

Greyhound Plans Service Edition

The issue of THE GREYHOUND of November 3 will contain a complete Service Honor Roll, and pictures and biographies of all Loyola alumni who have made the supreme sacrifice in this war.

We ask the parents and friends of any alumnus in the armed services to notify us of any promotions or decoration which he may have received.

Since this issue will be of special interest to alumni in the armed forces, we request that it be mailed to them by their families.

Upperclasses Plan Annuals

The Senior and Junior Classes of Loyola College have decided by unanimous vote to publish Year Books, in spite of the fact that both classes have lost over half of their original number to the armed forces.

"We feel sure that the fellows in service will want an Annual containing the pictures of their former classmates published," said Joseph Gessler, Senior Class President recently. "Our Book will contain a special section on the members of our class in the armed forces."

Kernan Is Editor

John Kernan will be the editor of the Senior annual, and an advertisement campaign is already underway to help finance the book. Contracts have been drawn up with the printer, and it is hoped that the Year Book will be ready for distribution by February, the month of the graduation of the present Senior Class.

Mike Molloy, President of the Junior Class, called a meeting early this month to discuss plans for a class Evergreen.

Committee Appointed

George Edwards and William Meyer were appointed co-chairmen of a committee to plan the publication of a Year Book.

Freshman Class To Hold Dance

An informal dance will be presented by the Freshman Class tomorrow evening in the College Gym. Tickets are $1.80, and dancing is from 9 to 1.

The freshmen claim to have a "find" in "The Rhythmists," who are scheduled to provide the music for the dance. This local band has not previously played at Evergreen's social affairs, but was immediately signed by the freshmen after an audition three weeks ago.

Dance Committee Listed

The committee in charge of arrangements for the affair is composed of William Taylor, Freshman Class President; Stewart Koehler, Terrence Fay, John Arthur, George Harmon, and William Cahill.

This dance is the first social venture of the Freshman Class of '46. According to a report of the financial committee made early this week, the sale of tickets is excellent, and it is expected that there will be a sell-out at the door tomorrow night.

Alumni Invited

In addition to students of the College and their friends, all alumni of Loyola are invited to attend the dance. Mr. Taylor reported that quite a number of alumni in the armed forces, now home on furlough, have purchased tickets for the dance.

Approximately one hundred graduates of Loyola, residing in Baltimore, were contacted by the freshmen through post cards and telephone calls. A large number promised to attend.

Faculty Chaperones

Members of the College faculty and their friends will act as chaperones. Refreshments will be served, and the floor of the Gym should be in the best of condition for dancing that it has been for several months.

Members of the Arrangements Committee will decorate the Gym and plan the lighting effects this afternoon.

Scribes Stage Monthly Social

The first Greyhound Press Club Social of the new academic year was held in the Recreation Room of the gymnasium on Saturday evening, September 9, from 8:30 P. M. to midnight.

Fifteen members of THE GREYHOUND Staff and their dates were present and enjoyed the dancing and games. The latest popular records supplied music for the affair, and refreshments were served throughout the course of the evening.

Robert E. Chartrand, President of The Greyhound Press Club, was Chairman of the Social, while Robert Hiltz, THE GREYHOUND News Editor, took charge of preparations.

The Greyhound Press Club was founded in September 1943, and lists as its members all those who have served on THE GREYHOUND staff since its foundation in 1927. As a member, each man receives a Press Club identification card.

Short Story Authors Win Bond Prizes

Earle Francis O'Connor, a student at the Loyola College School of Adult Education, has been awarded first prize of $50 in War Bonds in the short story contest conducted by THE GREYHOUND, it was announced today by the judges of the contest.

Maurice F. Mackey, USA, former Assistant Editor of THE GREYHOUND, and a member of the Class of 1944 at Loyola, was awarded the second prize of a twenty-five dollar War Bond for a sketch entitled "Wait a Little Longer."

War Subjects Win

Mr. O'Connor's story, "Angle Man," was awarded the prize on the basis of the originality and strength of the plot, the treatment of the idea, and the general literary ability of the writer. It deals with the reactions of a man disappointed in his hopes for a commission in the army, and tells how he rose above his disappointment to find a glorious end in the service of his country.

Mackey's contribution revealed the thoughts of a man who had lost his arm in a naval battle in the Pacific—his doubts as to whether the sacrifices which he had made were justified; and his conclusion that the future would prove them to be so.

Five Judges

Judges for the contest were the Rev. Joseph A. d'Invioliers, S. J., Dean of the College; the Rev. Joseph K. Drane, S. J., Dean of Freshmen; the Rev. Paul J. Gibbons, S. J., Moderator of THE GREYHOUND; Murray Campbell, Saturday Evening Post contributor, and Charles Bagley, III, a member of the editorial staff of THE GREYHOUND.

Mr. O'Connor, a Baltimore advertising executive, was a member of the class in Effective Writing in the School of Adult Education at the time he entered the contest, which was restricted to those taking courses at Loyola and to all alumni.

Physics Department Announces Changes

The Rev. Simon C. Kirsch, S. J., has left Loyola College to enter Tertiaship at Pomfret, Conn. He taught Physics at Loyola during the past year.

Fr. Kirsch's class in Elementary Physics has been taken by the Rev. John P. Delaney, S. J., chairman of the Physics Department.

The Rev. Regis B. Winslow, S. J., who taught Physics at Loyola last year, is now at Auriesville, N. Y. in Tertiaship.

Fr. Winslow had been working in the College laboratory during the past semester, and plans to pursue special studies in Physics at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology after he has completed his Tertiaship.

Fr. Kirsch was ordained at Woodstock College in June, 1942 and Fr. Winslow in June, 1943.

Many Students Engaged In Part-Time War Jobs

By John J. Kernan

Although war conditions still prevail on the campus, some college students continue to whistle a merry tune while they "work their way through college." College is usually considered by most people as a full time occupation, but many Loyola men find time to devote themselves to work after school hours.

Leading the list are the Brinks' men, who constitute approximately sixty per cent of the working students. The Greyhounds employed by the local money-conveying organization, usually act as guards on Thursday and Friday afternoons, and again on Friday evenings.

Use Oratorical Powers

Five per cent of the Evergreen students put their oratorical powers to great advantage every weekend by acting in the capacity of salesmen in several of the large downtown department stores.

Bob Maizell has a part on a dramatic radio program sponsored weekly by the Baltimore Department of Education.

Student And Teacher

Charles Bagley, however, has become the campus paradox. He is both student and teacher. While completing his college studies here, he is imparting his knowledge of the classics to students at a nearby preparatory school.

As a study in contrasts, Gus Chambers is employed as an electrician, on the night shift in a local shipyard, while Mike Molloy assists the officials of the Pimlico Race Track in the "sport of kings."

Occupations Varied

Among the other varied occupations, we find twenty per cent of the students driving trucks for local florists and grocery stores, doing part-time announcing for local radio stations, filling prescriptions in drug stores, and working as helpers of a pest exterminator company.

The future for post-war employment seems to widen rather than narrow for the men of Loyola.

Student Council Elects Officers For Coming Year

At the Student Council meeting on July 31, elections were held to choose administrators for the scholastic year. Howard Strott was chosen Vice-president; John Plunkett, Secretary, and Laurence Molloy, Treasurer.

Donald Giblin, President of the Student Council, presided over the meeting and conducted the election. First, Mr. Giblin called for nominations by the Council for each office, and then after all the nominations were in, the nominees left the room while the Council voted by hand for the respective officers.

Only Members Eligible

Only members of the Council, which is composed of all the Presidents of the classes and clubs at the College, were eligible for office. Prior to this election, the entire student body and faculty voted Mr. Giblin President of the Student Body and of the Student Council.

Vice-president Strott is the Prefect of the Sodality; Secretary John Plunkett is the Editor of THE GREYHOUND, and Treasurer Laurence Molloy, who was the only officer to be re-elected, is President of the Junior Class.

The Very Rev. Edward B. Bunn, S. J., Rector of Loyola College, who is present at all Council meetings, urged the officers to maintain the high standards of the Council. He also requested that the Presidents of the sundry organizations and classes notify Mr. Plunkett as to any meetings they are planning, so that he may keep a social calendar of school events and activities.

Weekly Paper Published

In conjunction with the meetings of the Council, a weekly publication called the STUDENT COUNCIL NEWS comes out on Wednesdays. This mimeographed sheet is a record of the functions of the Council meeting of the day before, and serves to link the Student Body with the Council.

Due to the schedule of Physical Training, the day of the meetings was changed from Monday to Tuesday.

Alumni Killed

Spencer, is on duty with the armed forces in Africa.

Lt. Spencer attended grammar school at Notre Dame, and later transferred to Boys' Latin. He graduated from Boys' Latin High School in 1935.

Schuncke in USNRA

Lt. Schuncke entered Loyola in 1937. He was active in the Blessed Virgin Sodality, and also participated in sports, particularly lacrosse and track.

Enlisting in the Naval Air Force in 1941, shortly before his graduation, he received his commission in April, 1942, after completing his advanced training at Corpus Christi, Texas. He was 25 years old at the time of his death.

Lt. Schuncke received his primary educational training at Mt. St. Joseph's, and graduated from Mt. St. Joseph's High School.

Masses Offered

A Mass was offered for the repose of the soul of each of these graduates in the Students' Chapel, and members of their families attended.

Alumni Questioned On National Issues

By Robert E. Hiltz

In order to determine the average reader's opinion on important events of the day, THE GREYHOUND invites every alumnus to answer the questions which appear in the box on this page.

In the past, similar polls have been conducted among the students at Evergreen but since the alumni of the College comprise nearly ninety percent of the circulation of this paper, we would like to collect a poll of their opinions for publication.

National Elections

Among the most important of decisions to be faced by Americans in the near future is the selection of a Chief Executive of the nation for the next four years.

In a recent student poll conducted at Evergreen, it was discovered that sixty percent of the students of Loyola College favor the election of Gov. Thomas Dewey as next President of the United States.

It will be interesting to see how this compares with the convictions of the Alumni of the College.

League Of Nations

Other questions in the poll concern the part the United States should play in the Post-War World. One asks if the United States should join a reconstructed League of Nations, and another inquires if American soldiers and sailors should participate in policing the world after the war.

The next set of questions is of special interest to former students of Loyola who intend to return after the war to complete their education.

Accelerated College Course

The administration of the College is interested in discovering what the average Loyola alumnus thinks about the acceleration of the former four-year college course in the post-war period. Question number four is designed to determine this, and question number five asks whether special classes for returning war veterans are preferred to regular classes containing veterans and recent high school graduates.

Post-War Conscription

Another problem of the day is brought up in the next question, which seeks alumni opinion on the post-war drafting of men between the ages of 17 and 23.

The seventh question asks whether a depression similar to that of the Post-World War I crash is inevitable after this War.

Day Of Final Victory

The final question in the poll would seem to be merely a matter of individual opinion, but it will still be interesting to find out how proficient the alumni are as military strategists.

This question inquires how long the period between Germany's surrender and the final defeat of Japan will be.

Deadline For Poll

The answers to these questions should be mailed to THE GREYHOUND, 4501 N. Charles St., Baltimore-10, Md., before October 18.

Dean's List Announced

The following were pledged on the Dean's List of Distinguished Students at the first quarterly assembly of the current school year for the quarter ending August 25:

Seniors: Angelo A. Alece, Dodd S. Carr, Joseph L. Gessler.

Juniors: Lawrence L. Bockstie, Jerry M. Cohen, George D. Edwards, Howard J. Strott.

Sophomores: Robert M. Gamson, Robert E. Hiltz, Edward M. Rehak, John B. Reilly.

Freshmen: Louis A. Fritz, Leonard A. Ginsberg, Mannes F. Greenberg, William H. Seldon.

The class averages for the first quarter were as follows: Sophomores: 80.34; Seniors: 79.48; Juniors: 77.26; Freshmen: 76.31; College average 78.31.

The assembly was held in the College Library on August 31.

Alumni Poll

1. Who is your choice for next President of the United States?—
2. Do you think the U. S. should join a League of Nations?—
3. Do you think the U. S. Army and Navy should help police the world?—
4. Do you think Loyola should have a two, three or four year course after the war?—
5. Do you think veterans should have separate classes from recent high school graduates?—
6. Do you think men between 17 and 23 should be drafted after the war for a one year period of service?—
7. Do you think a post-war depression is inevitable?—
8. How long will be the period between the fall of Germany and Japan's surrender?—

The residents of Ocean City, Md., have not decided which they would rather have: another hurricane or the continued patronage of Loyola students. A recent poll finds another hurricane out in front by a big margin.

SONGS OF THE SURF—From the Watchdog's reserved table at the Beach Club we observed three gentlemen, whose initials are: Frank (No, I'm not Sinatra) Cashen, Dan (Where's Celeste?) Feeney and Skinny Simms occupying the same table day and night. They didn't seem to like the brand of grapefruit juice served by the establishment since they brought their own with them. George Bardleman and Dolores also honored O. C. with their presence . . . This is getting serious. Lou (Ooorieooles) Franz and Sal Cammarata came breezing into the big city after a tough hike with about seven friends trailing behind. In our travels we came across Henry (The Duke) Eckhardt—all we can say is—the Duke did it again—'nuff said. Boots Connolly and Charlie (Coach) Meagher caused the strange noises heard every evening from the attic of the Langford. John Ahlers should learn the difference between mare, mayor and Meagher. Bill (I like mine straight—without cream) Rogers came down from Gibson Island to see how the other half lives. John (Parris Island) Krager came prepared with an ample supply of medicine in his little black bag. Ray Bevans was observed on the O. C. beach soaking up a little sun with a lovely de-icer . . . these frat boys get the best of everything.

If You Don't Want It Printed

SNOOPINGS AT THE SPOTS—Bimbo Jackson and Franny (Sally's wonderful) Locke were seen at the Baltimore Country Club recently. Charles Bagley and party took the Stafford by storm not long ago—we wonder who the blonde was, Charlie? Mike Molloy paid another visit to Ithaca, N. Y., over the Labor Day recess.

Here's One Rule To Follow

NOW IT CAN BE TOLD DEPARTMENT—Ed (St. Joseph's is the best place for a rest cure) Rehak seems to be taking a sudden interest in home decorating, baby food and other related subjects—at least he seems to be reading literature on them. Ye Ed doesn't quite understand the benefits of Epistemology to a young man with a 1-A card. Well, maybe Fr. Walsh will join the Chaplain Corps. THE date on Bud Strott's calendar is October 12. An admirer of Columbus, no doubt. Bob (I'll take care of that too) Hiltz seems to have a monopoly on the Saturday evenings of Miss Mildred (Stick with those Birds) Farrell.

Don't Let It Happen

NOTES FROM HERE AND THERE—Joe (Chick-chaser) Griesacker has transferred his A. C. pin to his red flannels for the winter. Joe Bronushas (accent on the "u") is said to have had his first experiment in medicine on his homeward trip from O. C. We see from an old composition that Stew Koehler and Dan Feeney may someday be rivals. Dan is interested in the restaurant business TOO. It was darn white of Herb (Whatsa matter Herb?) Prescott to fix his bosom-pal Bimbo Jackson up with a date for the Frosh Welcoming Dance.

IN CONCLUSION—we would like to say to those nasty people who are conspiring to learn the true identity of The Watchdog: here's a hint fellows: Keep your eye on Barney . . . that dog knows more than he's telling.

Advisory Council Helps Veterans Plan Careers

IRC Highlights Japan Problem

The International Relations Club of Loyola College is currently discussing the problem of post-war treatment of Japan. The meetings are being held every other week, at which time the various difficulties which will confront the United Nations at the cessation of hostilities with Japan, are discussed by the club members.

As an outline for these discussions, the analysis of the Universities Committee on Post-War International Problems, Problem XI, "The Post-War Treatment of Japan," is used.

Chairman Explains Topics

The questions contained in this analysis are read by Chairman Joseph Gessler, who explains the background of the problems under consideration. Following Mr. Gessler's report, an open discussion takes place.

The first of these issues, on which the club has reached a decision is, "With what authority, in a defeated Japan, shall we deal in accepting the terms of unconditional surrender, and in arranging the terms of the peace settlement?"

New Books Presented

Each year at the beginning of the semester the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace presents to the International Relations Club of Loyola a collection of valuable books on current world problems.

Books Listed

Among the recent volumes presented are the following: "The Great Decision" by James T. Shotwell; "Russia and the Peace" by Bernard Pares; "Prospects and Policies" by Rt. Hon. Herbert Morrison; "Voices from Unoccupied China" by Harley F. MacNair; "After the War—What?" by Preston Slosson, and "Latin America and the Industrial Age" by J. Fred Rippy.

Ensign Walker Weds At Pensacola

Ensign Cornelius T. Walker, USNR, of the class of October, 1943, was recently married to Miss Alice Marie Johnson of Pensacola, Fla.

The ceremony took place at St. Michael's Church in Pensacola on September 7. Ensign Walker is now stationed at Ocracoke, N. C.

Cory is a former member of THE GREYHOUND staff and a brilliant lacrosse player. He holds the College record for most goals scored in a single game, with nine counters in one engagement.

Debaters View Post-War World

The Bellarmine Debating Society has held three meetings so far this year, and during these the members of the Society delivered papers on different forms of post-war government.

The topics were: Isolationism, by Robert Hiltz; World State, by Robert Geraghty; and World Confederation, by Thomas Lalley.

Forms Of Government Stressed

The papers treated these subjects as possible forms of government after the war, setting forth the relative merits and disadvantages of each, and offering any historical data connected with them.

At a succeeding meeting John Kernan gave a thorough summary of the Dumbarton Oaks Conference, its aims, its participants, and its bearing on the picture of world government. The members of the Society then engaged in a critical discussion of the aforementioned papers.

Replaces Formal Debates

So far this year the activity of the Debating Society has been restricted, due to the fact that it is impossible to schedule intercollegiate debates.

Faculty Group To Aid Returning Loyola Men

The Very Rev. Edward B. Bunn, S. J., President of Loyola College, announced in a recent interview the formation of an Educational and Vocational Council for Loyola Veterans of World War II.

The Council will be an advisory service for educational and vocational programs in order that these returning veterans may utilize their opportunities in full and especially the opportunities provided in the G. I. Bill of Rights.

The Council has a complete list of the names and records of all students whose education at Loyola College was interrupted by induction into the armed forces.

All Alumni Notified

Fr. Bunn explained the plan as follows: "I intend to write each Loyola alumnus in the near future concerning our newly founded Council. We are going to request all those who could not finish their education here to return to discuss future plans regarding their subsequent careers, and how they may secure the maximum benefits from the G. I. Bill of Rights.

"If we find a young man, for example, who wishes to be a doctor, and has completed some college work, we will draw up a schedule by which he may finish College education in the shortest possible time so that his G. I. benefits may extend to his professional courses."

Council Listed

The Council will be composed of Fr. Bunn, Fr. d'Inviillers, the Dean; Fr. Drane, the Freshman Dean; Fr. Higgins, the Student Counselor, and Fr. Sullivan, Professor of Psychology.

"The Council is working on the principle of Alma Mater," Fr. Bunn explained. "Alma Mater is a vicarious mother delegated by the parents to perform that part of the education of a youth which the parents are unable to perform. The work of a College is a continuation and supplementing of the home, that is to educate a boy to the complete realization of his talents and self-development. These boys came here to school, and now their Alma Mater is carrying out its responsibility to them.

Government And Individual Benefited

"We understand this Bill, and we realize its advantages. The veteran has done work here, and we are asking him to return so that we may complete our task of developing his potentialities to the maximum. In this way we are both aiding the student and the government which wishes the benefits it extends to the veterans to be expended in the most efficient way.

"The Council will review carefully the veteran's past records here, his records in the armed forces, through the Armed Forces Institute, and also evaluate such other past experience which may contribute to educational credit.

Orientation Classes Planned

"There will also be orientation classes where the veteran can obtain the proper civilian viewpoint for the post-war world. These classes will be conducted in seminars, with discussions under the professor's supervision."

A copy of the letter which will be sent to every alumnus in the armed forces appears on this page.

Armed Forces Institute

The U. S. Armed Forces Institute, with headquarters at Madison, Wisconsin, has been designated as a central clearing house to assemble information on military and educational experiences of service men.

Rev. Edward B. Bunn, S. J.

In this way it may be possible to give men in the armed forces college credits for training and experience which they had in service. For example, men in Army and Navy camps are in reality receiving lessons in Military Science and those in Technical Schools are taking scientific studies.

By means of the Armed Forces Institute, it is possible to evaluate these courses and give college credits for them.

Aim Of Program

Fr. Bunn also stated that the aim of this program is to present an evaluation of democracy, its institutions and traditions, in terms of the post-war world.

Chem Students Offer Essays

"Chemistry students of Loyola College will deliver papers on topics in the fields of applied chemistry before the Chemists Club," it was announced by President Angelo Alecce, at a recent meeting of the society held in the Chemistry Lecture Room.

"For the past several years, it has been a practice of the club to secure speakers who are well known in the scientific world," Mr. Alecce stated. "However, due to the fact that scientists are now fully engaged in the war effort, it is extremely difficult to secure lecturers."

Students To Participate

Any student who is taking a course in Chemistry at Loyola may volunteer to write and deliver a paper on any aspect of science he chooses.

In this way it is hoped to keep the interest of the students, and especially the undergraduates, alive in the Chemistry Club. Meetings have been scheduled for each month and they will be held in the Chemistry Lecture Room.

Plan Is Experiment

It was emphasized that this new plan of student participation is an experiment caused by lack of speakers prominent in fields of applied science. The Rev. Edward S. Hauber, S. J., is the Moderator of the club.

Professors Study World Peace Plans

A cooperating group of the Universities Committee on Post-War International Problems has been founded at Loyola College.

This Committee is sponsored by the World Peace Foundation and has groups in approximately fifty American colleges and universities. Its purpose is to bring together the members of the faculties of every important college in the United States to exchange ideas on the problems of the Post-War World and thus to form opinions held by the majority of the country's educators.

Committee Members Named

The members of the Loyola Committee are: the Very Rev. Edward B. Bunn, S. J.; the Rev. Joseph A. d'Inviillers, S. J.; the Rev. Thomas P. Higgins, S. J.; the Rev. Paul J. Gibbons, S. J.; the Rev. William V. Herlihy, S. J.; the Rev. Matthew G. Sullivan, S. J.; the Rev. Joseph K. Drane, S. J., and Dr. Edward A. Doehler.

At the headquarters of the Committee in Boston a subject is selected for discussion every month. The cooperating groups in the various member colleges meet one or more times until a conclusion has been reached on the aspects of the topic.

Reports Published

At the end of the month, the secretary of the group sends a report to the headquarters of the Committee, and the findings of the groups are published and made known to Congress. The report is published in the monthly magazine International Conciliations.

The subject under discussion for the month of September is "Post-War Relations With Soviet Russia." In October "Post-War Relations With the British Commonwealth" will be considered.

Committee One Year Old

The Universities Committee is a little over a year old. Loyola was represented at the semi-annual regional meeting which was held at Princeton University on June 17-18 by Fr. Bunn and Dr. Doehler.

Other colleges represented at this meeting included: Bryn Mawr College, Dartmouth, Georgetown University, Hood, New York University, University of Pennsylvania, Princeton, and the University of Virginia.

Meets Weekly

The Loyola College group meets weekly on the campus at Evergreen. Dr. Doehler, Professor of History at Loyola, is Secretary of the group, and records the results of the discussions which are forwarded to the national headquarters.

"The Constitutional Aspects of a United States Participation in an International Organization," a subject much under discussion as a result of the World Security Conference at Dumbarton Oaks, will be considered at a coming meeting.

Ralph Barton Perry is Chairman of the Universities Committee, and Leland M. Goodrich is director of the World Peace Foundation, the organization which is sponsoring the Committee.

Colleges Express Opinions

"By means of this organization," said Dr. Doehler recently, "the colleges of America are able to combine their influence and thus have a greater voice in Post-War International Problems."

Office Of The President

Loyola College,
September 10, 1944

Dear Alumnus:

As you know, Loyola College has followed the course of all her students in the Armed Services with anxiety born of personal interest and with the earnest prayer that every man would return safely. As your Alma Mater she wants to be faithful to her responsibility in helping to direct the future of all her former students. Legislation has been passed known as the G. I. Bill which offers definite benefits to all veterans, together with a provision for enabling those whose education was interrupted by the war to continue and complete it.

We have established an Advisory Service here at the College to assist you in planning your future so that you may derive the maximum benefits from the educational provisions of this Bill. The program of studies here will be adapted to enable you to complete the work for your degree as soon as possible, so that you may proceed with your professional education under the Bill's provisions.

The U. S. Armed Forces Institute has been designed by the War and Navy Departments as a central clearing agency to assemble information on military and educational experiences of service men, and to transmit this information at their request to the educational institution they desire to enter. Application forms may be obtained by writing to the U. S. Armed Forces Institute, Madison, Wisconsin. If you intend to complete your education be sure to contact this Institute for a record evaluating the educational credit of your military experience.

I would be glad to hear from you personally as to any plans you may have in this connection. Whether or not you return to the classroom, you may be assured of a hearty welcome here at Evergreen from your teachers and Our Lady, whose votive light burns perpetually for your safe homecoming.

With every good wish, I am,

Sincerely,

Very Reverend Edward B. Bunn, S. J.

Defeat In Victory

At this time when the United Nations are experiencing victories on every battle front of the world, it seems strange for Americans to be defeatists concerning the Post-War World.

Yet, it cannot be denied that there are many people in the United States who doubt that the peace after this war will last even for twenty-five years.

The last World War was popularly known as "the war to end wars", but today even people in high places speak of wars to follow this one.

If you should ask someone why he holds this defeatist attitude, he would probably reply that it is because of the impossibility of understanding complex international issues. He might say for instance: "How can you be sure of Russia?", or "Is it possible to keep Germany and Japan disarmed?"

Nevertheless this same person will go no further towards attempting to understand complicated post-war problems than listening to his radio or reading his newspaper.

It is said that not one out of fifty Americans understood the real issues at stake in the recent Spanish Civil War even though there were many books on both sides of the question in existence at the time.

The people of the United States have a special responsibility to keep well informed on issues of international importance after this war. As citizens of a democracy, their opinion will dictate the foreign policy of the most powerful nation on earth. It is, then, their duty to become acquainted with both sides of every question of the post-war relations of the United States with the other nations.

The educators of America have banded together in the Universities Committee On International Post-War Problems described elsewhere in this paper. The students of Loyola College may join the International Relations Club which is part of a nation-wide organization speaking for the college students of the country.

If we are not able to join organizations such as these, we should make a special effort to become acquainted with post-war problems ourselves.

It is only in this way that we can make sure that there will never be a World War III.

Condolences

On behalf of the Faculty and Student Body, THE GREYHOUND extends heartfelt condolences to the Rev. John G. Hacker, S. J., on the death of his brother, and to Thomas Garvey, '45, on the death of his father.

Send It On

During the past few weeks, we have received letters from several former Loyola students now in the armed forces. Invariably they mention that it is a great boost to the morale of a service man to receive his college newspaper at an Army or Navy camp.

They read every article in the paper and then pass it on to someone else in their barracks to read. We would like to mail THE GREYHOUND direct to every alumnus in the armed forces, but when we realize that the number of alumni in service has passed the nine hundred mark and that these men are constantly changing their service address, it is not difficult to see why such a plan would be impossible.

It is with these thoughts in mind that we appeal to the families of alumni in the armed forces to forward THE GREYHOUND to them. They will appreciate it, and we will also.

As this issue goes to press, it appears likely that the name of a new Editor-in-Chief will appear on the masthead of the next issue.

The twentieth Editor of Loyola College's student publication expects to be inducted into the armed forces next month. He will be the third Editor to have entered service before the end of his term.

The next issue of THE GREYHOUND will contain a complete service honor roll. If anyone knows of promotions or decorations of alumni in service, he should contact THE GREYHOUND by telephone or mail, so that this information may appear in the next issue.

Dear Doctor,

After a marvelous ocean voyage on a calm and accommodating sea, we were unceremoniously deposited on the Dark Continent. We had nice quarters in Casablanca. The city itself has beautiful points of interest: the Cathedral of Moorish design, the park and the Sultan's Palace being especially noteworthy. Our stay there was very short though . . .

I'm sure you have heard, at least second-hand, of our overland trip through the beautiful Atlas Range.

We were some sight to behold when we got off the train. It must have taken us two days to get the cinders out of our hair.

We are, and have been, marking time here, and have scoured the surrounding countryside for places of interest. Luckily we met an Army Chaplain, a Benedictine from New Jersey, and he has been swell to us. He drove us over to an old monastery nearby, which is a sort of mother-house for the Holy Ghost Fathers. These priests spend their lives as missionaries in the deserts of Africa . . .

Our own chaplain is 4.0 plus. His name is Fr. Stockman and he was an old roommate of Fr. Bunn's at school. He is witty and clever, and a good man.

My warmest personal regards to Frs. Sullivan and Herlihy, and Mr. Betowski. To yourself, the same.

Sincerely

Ensign Murray White, USNR

Dear Editor-in-Chief,

About one month ago, while enroute to my present station, I received a letter from the Rev. John Fay, S. J., of Woodstock, telling me of his ordination to the Sacred Priesthood.

Not knowing Father Fay's present address, I thought THE GREYHOUND would be the best way to let him know that I was very pleased to realize that my friendships at Loyola College are still intact. I carried that letter with me in an assault landing of the island of Guam from which I am writing this letter.

It came to my attention that I had carried Father Fay's blessing into combat. I am very happy to say that I am still uninjured but only through the goodness of God. I'm sure Father was praying for me on D-day. Someone was. Thanks, Father.

The last GREYHOUND that I received was the issue of May 12, when I had a chance to talk to John Galvin at Tulagi.

I saw Barney Goldberg on Guadalcanal. In February, I met Carroll Feeley in the Marshall Islands.

My regards to the faculty at Loyola.

SPECIAL:

The Rev. John P. Delaney, S. J., Chairman of the Physics Department at Loyola College in Baltimore, has recently been nominated for meritorious service decorations due to his tireless efforts in expediting war communications. Father Delaney, when interviewed, modestly admitted the extent of his secret experiments. Yielding to the incessant questions of a notorious GREYHOUND reporter, Father Delaney commented briefly on the soft, smothered 'cooings' which were heard in the back of the Physics lecture room. "She's in love," he said and with this illuminating comment the entire fascinating tale of international intrigue would have ended had not the unusual noises been traced to a lonesome, bedraggled pigeon which, it was discovered, is being crossed with a woodpecker and a parrot. The object: To replace carrier pigeons with an all-purpose bird who can fly to the destination, knock on the door, and deliver the message verbally.

The Diamondback of the University of Maryland, also makes it very clear that: "Only half finished, the two authors hope to complete their books by spring." May we suggest that they go on the wagon completely. Maybe they can finish the books by New Years, then.

For want of something better to do with all the time we have during this accelerated program, we will henceforth conduct a contest of "Campus Curiosities." Nominations thus far, (from the sophomores), are as follows: Sid Roche's Cigar Smasher (patent pending). Bardleman's batting average. (Teerific). Seifert's gym shorts. (Very woo-woo). Rehak's excuse slips. (Weird). Kemp's huge poster. (For every class). Krager's 1-A. (P. T. onlooker — remember?) and finally: Manny, the Mouse of THE GREYHOUND Office.

It is also rumored that the freshman who got a seven in a quarterly English test finally passed something. That's right—his physical.

An ultimate in low humor has been reached by the Frosh who claims that he has invented a new waffle mix in chem lab. His slogan: "It can't be beat."

"Under the Elective System my college schedule was somewhat as follows:

Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays at 11:00: Botany 2a (The History of Flowers and Their Meaning).

Tuesdays and Thursdays at 11:00: English 26 (The Social Life of the Minor Sixteenth-Century Poets).

Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays at 12:00: Music 9 (History and Appreciation of the Clavichord).

Tuesdays and Thursdays at 12:00: German 12b (Early Minnesingers—Walter von Wogenweider, Ulric Glanndorf, and Freimann von Stremhofen. Their Songs and Times).

Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays at 1:30: Fine Arts 6 (Doric Columns: Their Uses, History, and Various Heights)."

Sodalists Plan North Carolina Missionary Aid

The Sodality is experiencing one of the most active seasons in recent years, according to Prefect Howard Strott.

Attendance records during the Summer Session show a substantial increase in all classes over a similar period last year. The various Sodality committees report at the regular business meetings held every second Thursday.

The Sanctuary Committee has been supplying the servers for the daily Masses in the Chapel. The Rosary Committee meets every week in the Students' Chapel to recite the rosary for Loyola's Alumni in the armed forces.

To Adopt Mission

The Mission Committee has written to the Rev. John Risacher, S. J., who has a mission in North Carolina, offering him any help that they might be able to extend. Paul Coffay, chairman of the Eucharistic Committee, has been posting a list of names of those who are to receive Holy Communion each day for the Alumni in Service.

Early in the term, the Rev. Thomas P. Higgins, S. J., Sodality Moderator, announced that he wished to form a Catechetical Committee in the Sodality.

Committee Formed

Robert Hiltz was appointed chairman of the Committee and he wrote to the Rev. John Duggin, Head of the Archdiocesan Confraternity of Christian Doctrine. Fr. Duggin expressed enthusiasm over the idea but said that at the present time there were no opportunities available for the Sodalists to teach Catechism.

However, he hoped that the plan would not be abandoned and urged the Sodalists to wait until he had contacted some parish organization to determine if it would be in need of teachers in the near future.

The regular meetings of the Sodality are held on Thursday at 12:50 P. M. The meetings are held in the Chapel, and in Room 201 on alternating weeks.

Fraternity President Sets Wedding Date

Howard Strott, Prefect of the Sodality and President of the Alpha Sigma Nu Chapter at Loyola, will be married to Miss Catharine Buchness on Thursday, October 12 at 10 A.M. The wedding will take place at St. Mark's Church, Catonsville, Md.

Miss Buchness is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John Buchness, and the sister of John and David Buchness who have served terms as Presidents of Loyola's Student Body during the past year.

Mr. Strott was honorably discharged from the Army Air Forces last year. He is vice-president of the Student Council and a member of the Junior Class at Loyola. He graduated from Loyola High School in 1938.

Contributions Increase Fund

THE GREYHOUND Scholarship Fund has reached a total of seven hundred and twenty-five dollars, it was announced by the Reverend Paul J. Gibbons, S. J., moderator of THE GREYHOUND. It is expected that the goal of eight hundred dollars will soon be attained.

The fund has been raised entirely by contributions from alumni and friends of Loyola College. A list of the contributors appears elsewhere in this issue. It is interesting to note that most of the contributions have been made by former Loyola College students who are now serving with the armed forces.

Aids Needy Student

The fund was originated by THE GREYHOUND in April, 1943. Its purpose is to aid a needy student in securing a complete college education. The only stipulation is that the recipient will work on the staff of THE GREYHOUND.

The last recipient attended Loyola College until he was called to the service of his country. At present, the fund is being used to defray the expenses of another student carefully selected by the Dean and THE GREYHOUND Moderator.

New Fund Planned

It is expected that the goal will be reached by Christmas. At that time THE GREYHOUND intends to establish a Service Scholarship fund in honor of former Loyola College students who have lost their lives in the service of their country.

Mr. McKeldin

Baltimore Mayor Fills Crowded Daily Program

By John C. Ahlers

At last we have found the one thing that the blazing Oriole Park, the Ocean City beach, and flag raisings have in common—McKeldin pictures. And the activities of Mayor Theodore Roosevelt McKeldin are as varied as the places in which his pictures are found.

"You are just a little too late," remarked Mayor McKeldin, as we entered his office last week. "I was just talking to Gene Tunney. He has that franchise for Baltimore's pro-football team, you know, and he wants to make sure that he can use the Stadium for Sunday games. Gene figures that there will be a good deal of excellent football material around next season so that Baltimore can have a winning football team too."

And thus, without our asking a question, the interview had begun. "Come on now; make yourselves comfortable," he offered, as his large form settled into the chair behind his desk. "I always feel that since the taxpayers are giving me my salary, they can at least sit down in my office."

Favorite Function As Mayor

Settling down I slowly opened my pen. "What is your favorite function as Mayor?" had scarcely left my lips when the Mayor's secretary interrupted with a telephone. "There's my favorite function," he laughed, "speaking to Mike about the Orioles."

"Seriously, though," he continued after his phone conversation, "I chiefly enjoy planning to do something to make this city a better place."

Likes People

"I also enjoy people," he went on. "If you dislike people you shouldn't be in public office. It's something that has to be born in you. Occasionally I go down to the foot of Broadway to eat, and afterwards walk through the market. It brings the government to the people. And, after all, that's what the Mayor should do. He's the administrator."

When questioned about the pictures which he generously dispenses, the Mayor seemed amused. "The Sunpapers disagree there," he joked. "They think it hurts me. But I have always found that wherever I go to speak, there is always a crowd that wants autographs, and I know what it is to be disappointed; I used to collect them myself. Incidentally, one of my most treasured possessions is an autograph, which I got when I was fourteen, from Cardinal Gibbons. But, getting back to the pictures, I usually carry a few so that I will not offend people when they ask for an autograph and I am in a rush to meet some urgent engagement."

Autographs During Luncheons

"But the pictures are autographed," I objected.

"Oh, I do that during long luncheons," he confided. "During a fairly long luncheon speech I can usually get about fifty of them signed while I am listening to the speaker," he added, and proceeded to demonstrate for several minutes while he went on telling a brief history of his life.

"I really liked baseball," he recollected, "but since I started selling papers at the age of eleven, I didn't have much time for it. After the seventh grade I completed most of my education at night school at City College, and Johns Hopkins University."

Taught Elocution

"I taught public speaking for twenty years and really enjoyed the work."

Again the telephone interrupted. "This has certainly been a week of celebrities," he afterwards explained. "Yesterday Vice-president Wallace was here; this morning it was Gene Tunney, and I just found out that Barney Ross is coming this afternoon."

First Months Amusing

In conclusion the mayor recalled a series of events which added quite a humorous touch to his first six months as Mayor. "I was frequently invited to launchings," he chuckled, "and altogether I must have attended between twenty-five and fifty during that period."

"The ship would be all decked out ready for launching; the crowd would gather round, and the master-of-ceremonies would begin introducing the speakers when invariably I would hear the microphone boom: 'We will now hear a few words from the Honorable Mayor Howard Jackson.'"

News In Brief

Robert W. Awalt, ex '43, was graduated from Aloe Army Air Field, Texas, last month, and was commissioned a flight officer in the Army Air Corps.

Executive Committee Meeting

The Committee held its regular meeting at Evergreen on the evening of September 13 to select the meeting date for the annual elections and to appoint a Nominating Committee. As in the past, in addition to the slate presented by the Nominating Committee, names of members in good standing may also be placed in nomination from the floor on the night of the elections.

Annual Election Meeting

The annual election meeting of the Association will be held in the Library at Evergreen on the evening of October 25 at 8:30 P. M. In spite of war conditions it is the hope of the Officers and Executive Committee that a large number will be in attendance. The occasion of the election meeting affords an excellent opportunity to meet those of your classmates who are still in Baltimore. The Entertainment Committee promises the usual REFRESHMENTS!

Alumni Retreat

It is never too early to make your preparations for the annual Alumni Retreat. Get out your calendar and circle December 1-4, 1944. Manresa-on-Severn is reserved for Loyola Men over this week-end. While the war has prevented many from attending, the total each year has been surprisingly large. Father Lloyd and the Officers of the Association are expecting a large attendance and a successful Retreat. You will not let them down! Cooperate with the Captain when he calls you. Contact a classmate and sell him the idea. Let's fill the house at Manresa, December 1-4!

Class Lists

Some months ago we printed the list of the Class of 1927, with the present occupation and position of each of its members. The list was prepared by its capable secretary, John R. Spellissy. At that time it was suggested that other classes prepare similar lists and send them in for publication. Rev. William D. McGonigle of St. Rita's, Alexandria, Va., is working on the Class of '37, and we hope others are doing likewise for their own groups. To help in the task of contacting members, the Association is most willing to send to any Alumnus an up-to-date check-list of addresses of his classmates. It will help you locate your friends, and may be a way of correcting our master mailing list through which notices and THE GREYHOUND reach members. Why not write in for your class list, and then send us the list of occupations and service connections for subsequent publication?

Alumni On Campus

Ensign Jack Fromm, '43, visited Loyola last week to renew acquaintances after some months absence. Jack will see action with the Seabees when he returns to his base.

Ensign Barkley Fritz, '43, was also with us recently, visiting his old haunts and checking on the whereabouts of his former classmates. Barkley will have much to tell about his experiences with the Amphibious Forces when we see him on his next furlough.

Lt. Noah Walker was back on the campus for a welcome visit after months of absence. After spending many, many months flying in Atlantic waters, Noah has reported for duty elsewhere, on the Pacific coast. Between times he found opportunity to look about at Evergreen.

* * *

Pvt. Marvin Rubin was not fortunate enough to finish his courses at Evergreen. Uncle Sam needed him in a hurry. Writing from Camp Wheeler, Ga., Marv casually dismisses the physical training that the Infantry is giving him. "So far it is not as bad as I expected it to be, not much more strenuous than one of Lefty's P. T. periods (when he was in the mood)". Careful, Marv. Loyola's P. T. is getting tougher, and so is Lefty (thanks to the Navy). When you come back to finish your courses at Loyola, Lefty will probably be back in the driver's seat, and you will have one more P. T. course to pass!

Taylor Wins Frosh Vote

William Taylor was chosen President of the Freshman Class in elections held on August 16 in Room 101. John Arthur, who polled the second highest number of votes, was named to the Vice-presidency. George Thomas was selected Secretary and John Mudd, Treasurer.

In order to nominate members for the class offices, a list containing the names of all the members of the class was distributed to each freshman. Each 'pup' circled seven of these names and returned the lists. The seven who received the highest number of votes were placed on the ballots for class offices.

After this initial screening, John Arthur, Raymond Bevans, Walter Connor, Charles Funk, John Mudd, William Taylor and George Thomas were nominated.

Mr. Taylor, the President of the class, will represent the freshmen in the Student Council. He will attend meetings of the Council and report on freshman activities. Mr. Taylor will also take charge of class socials and appoint committees when necessary.

Former Editor Home On Leave

Seaman 1/C Terrence E. Burke, former Editor of THE GREYHOUND, was home on leave after boot training recently. He visited the campus several times and expressed the hope of working on the publication when he returns to Loyola after the war.

Seaman Burke is at present at the Great Lakes Naval Training Center awaiting transfer to a Radio Technician School in Chicago. He was inducted on June 30.

Soviet Relations Discussed

should be applied to criminals on both sides of the present conflict.

c. No German territory should be taken except in keeping with the conditions of No. 3 above, regarding self-determination.

Should Get Reparations

d. As a devastated country, the Soviet should be entitled to reparations confined within "definite" limits, payable either in goods or in services, at the discretion of Germany, so long as their payment or the choice of the manner of payment is consonant with her continuance as a cooperating member of the Post-War organization of International security (i.e. does not ruin her as a state).

e. The form of Germany's post-war government will be a purely German matter, except that such government must be able and willing to fulfill the obligations of membership in the International Security Organization to be established, and that her foreign policy be subject to the International Organization until such time as she gives conclusive evidence of her peaceful intentions.

Demands Unnecessary

5. With reference to possible Soviet demands for "strategic frontiers" and a special Soviet "zone of safety", it is felt that such demands are unnecessary and incongruous in the light of the formation of a real organization of collective security. Boundaries should be drawn according to right as decided by self-determination, and security should be based on the "system of security".

To demand such "strategic frontiers" or "zones" despite the principle of self-determination bespeaks a mistrust of the security system prior to its inception and must not be countenanced.

Friendly Cooperation Urged

6. Friendly post-war cooperation between the Soviet Union and the United States is essential to peace and world security. Such cooperation will depend upon the attitude of each power toward the other and toward the International Organization to be established. In order to further such cooperation:

a. The Soviet must make clear and real its honest policy of non-intervention in the affairs of other powers, both directly and indirectly through such groups as the former Communist International; she must make effective guarantees of "freedom" to her own citizens; after the ending of German hostilities she should show a willingness, if necessary, to aid the other United Nations in shortening the war with Japan, preferably by assistance short of the actual use of Soviet troops; she should relax her former policy of secretiveness in international dealings, and decide to cooperate in world affairs on a basis of other than merely selfish (Russian) interests.

Part Of United States

b. The United States should do its share by clarifying the following points: While decrying the notion of "great powers" ruling the earth as the starting point of power politics and future wars, we are willing to admit that the U. S. S. R. is a nation capable of exercising great economic power in the post-war world, and to afford to her the same recognition as a sovereign state that we expect her to grant to all other states.

We should further insist that any resurrection of anti-Soviet policy on our part will result only from, and will follow immediately upon, a resurrection of former obnoxious Soviet practices and policies. Finally the United States should clearly proclaim and take effective steps toward the earliest possible participation in the proposed world security organization, so as to put an end to any groundless fears of our return to isolation.

Topic For October

During October the topic under consideration is "Post-War Relations With the British Commonwealth of Nations". In view of the generally accepted belief that an essential condition of peace is a reasonable understanding between the two great English-speaking peoples of the world, this topic has more than ordinary importance and interest.

Actors Choose Three Dramas

A program of three one-act plays will be presented by the Masque and Rapier Society in the early part of November.

The plays were selected at a meeting of the society held on September 7. They are: "The Valiant" by Hall and Middlemass; "The Master of Solitaire," and "Front Page Stuff" by Bloch.

Little Theatre To Be Used

The program will be presented in Loyola's Little Theatre in the basement of the faculty residence. The stage crew has already begun to plan the settings and lighting for the presentation.

Thomas Garvey, former President of the Dramatic Club, will be inducted into the armed forces in the near future. He resigned his position in early September. Franny Locke, who was Vice-president at the time, will leave for the University of Maryland School of Dentistry in the next few weeks to train under the V-12 Program.

Longley Is New President

Robert Longley, former Secretary-treasurer of the organization, was unanimously elected President to succeed Mr. Garvey. The Rev. Matthew G. Sullivan, S.J., is Moderator of the Dramatic Club.

Parts for the plays were assigned early this month, and rehearsals are held three times a week in the Little Theater.

Amazing Changes Observed Here

After the busy and profitable summer months, a great change in personal appearance has suddenly seized Evergreen scholars.

Mike Molloy is shaving, Knobby Harris is wearing a tie, Franny Locke is cleaning his glasses,

Frank Cashen is combing his hair, Sal Cammarata is shining his shoes,

Lou Franz is wearing a coat, "Duke" Eckhardt is pressing his pants,

Sid Roche has cleaned his fingernails.

... Why?

No longer does this question disturb the peaceful slumber of your GREYHOUND correspondent. The answer can be found every morning on the number eleven street car. For . . .

The Notre Dame girls (those N. D. lovelies) have started back to school.

STARS-IN-STRIPES

One of the greatest basketball players ever to attend Loyola College in the past decade, Bernie Thobe, is now stationed on Tulagi Island in the Pacific area. Bernie, a First Lieutenant in the U. S. M. C. R., has served with the Marines since June of 1942.

After being graduated, he enlisted and received ten weeks of strenuous basic training. Upon completing this he was awarded a commission as Second Lieutenant and was sent to Quantico, Virginia, to await further orders.

Met Loyola Alumni

In September, he was married to the former Miss Alice Baesche, whom he met while at Southern High School. Later he was transferred to the Pacific battle area, where he has been fighting on many islands ever since.

In a recent letter to THE GREYHOUND (see page 4), Bernie related some of his past experiences and reported that he had met many Loyolumni while fighting in the Pacific. He also took part in the assault landing on Guam.

Brilliant Basketeer

During his four year stay at Evergreen, the rangy forward was a regular on every Greyhound quint. His calibre of play rose to such a peak that in his sophomore and senior years, he received mention on The Sunpaper's All-Maryland team.

He compiled a total of over 750 points in intercollegiate competition, hooping 226 of them in his second year. He also established a game record in 1939 when he racked up twenty-six markers against Potomac State. This record stood until Lacy scored thirty-two points against American U. last season.

Awarded Gunnery Medals

A better-than-average student, Bernie was also active in the Sociology Club and the English Academy. He was a member of the varsity baseball squad and participated in intramural softball.

During his training at Quantico, Thobe received eight medals for excellence. This group of awards included ribbons for bayonet expertness, pistol sharpshooting, and excellence in machine gun and automatic rifle firing.

Grid Clashes Inaugurate Intramurals

Plans are now being made to form an intramural football league. The scheduled games will probably begin early next week, with the class teams battling during the lunch periods, physical training classes, and after school.

The games, which last thirty minutes, will be played according to touch football rules.

Medals Given To Champs

At the close of the season, the best of the senior and sophomore teams will tackle the junior and freshman squads in the semi-finals. The victors will vie for the championship in the finals. Each member of the championship team will receive a medal.

Last year's intramural touch football league included many brilliant contests, especially the finals when the Bushmasters and the Draft Dodgers met, after subduing their opponents in the semi-finals. The Draft Dodgers captured the crown from the Bushmasters, 19-13.

Exciting Finals

The Draft Dodgers, led by the three top scorers of last year's league, Dutch Mohler, Gene O'Connor, and Ed McGarry, topped the previous champs in the final quarter, when Dave Buchness scored in the closing minutes to end a 13-13 deadlock.

The first semi-final contest was a free scoring duel as the Draft Dodgers outpointed the Champs, 50-49. Each side scored eight touchdowns, but the Draft Dodgers capitalized on two extra points.

The Block L Club of Loyola College held its first social of the present term last Saturday night in the recreation room of the gymnasium. Forty couples danced to the recorded music of the best bands in the country.

The social was preceded by a short business meeting. Tim Parr, President of the club, announced that the initiation fee is now $1.00, with the members paying a smaller fee at the beginning of each new school year.

New Membership Cards

Membership in this organization is limited to students who have received either a major or a minor letter for participating in athletics. The President also announced that new membership cards would be distributed to each member.

After the business meeting, letters and certificates were presented by the Rev. William V. Herlihy, S. J., to the members of the baseball, tennis, and lacrosse squads of last year.

Letters Awarded

Major letters for baseball were awarded to the following: George Bardleman, John Boone, Joseph Bronushas, Dan Feeney, Louis Franz, Paul Harris, Ed Hart, Bill Hodges, Ed McGarry, Tim Parr, Sid Roche, and Walter Simms.

Major letters for tennis went to Jerry Gaudreau, Edward Jackson, Jim Lacy, Donald Mohler, Gene O'Connor, Herb Prescott, and Bill Thaler.

Rev. William Herlihy Made A.A. Moderator

P.T. Features Volley Ball

"Volley ball is a game that few people esteem," said Mr. Robert Owings, Physical Training Instructor at Loyola College, in a recent interview.

"Many people," he continued, "consider it a game for children, but it is not. On the contrary, it is a game that requires quick thinking at all times and promotes unity among the players. That is the reason the army has the soldiers play volley ball. It makes them work together with more coordination in their real job."

Questions P. T. Class

When asked if he thought whether volley ball was gaining in popularity or not, Mr. Owings said, "I'll answer that by asking this P. T. class a question."

He turned to the group and queried, "How many here like volley ball?" In answer to his question, three-fourths of the class raised their hands. Turning away from the students, he stated, "When I asked that question at the first P. T. period that this class had, less than one-quarter of them answered in the affirmative."

At First Unpopular

Mr. Owings cited another incident which shows the increased vogue of volley ball. When a group of thirty-six students first started under our new P. T. Instructor, the majority of them quickly played softball, posting two complete teams on the field. Few of the group volunteered to play volley ball.

At present, however, the scene is completely reversed. Volley ball has become the favorite pastime, while the softball squads are depleted. The remaining game, touch football, now holds second position on the athletic program.

Mr. Owings added that volley ball would increase very much in popularity after the war because there is very little equipment needed and it can be played on either indoor or outdoor courts.

Basketeers Groom For Heavy Season

Almost twenty candidates for the basketball squad have been practicing in the gymnasium for the past two weeks. The Rev. William V. Herlihy, S. J., Moderator of Athletics, is pacing the basketeers in the elementary stage of training, getting them into tip-top shape for the coming season.

Varsity Holdovers

The team this season will probably be built around the three holdovers from last year's varsity squad: Sal Cammarata, Jerry Cohen, and Earl Brannan. From the B squad, Don Giblin, Frank Cashen, Bill Hodges, Tim Parr, and Ed Fleishman are battling for starting honors on the first five. Talent from the Freshman Class comprises players from Towson Catholic and Loyola High Schools.

Continuous Practice

Although it is too early to comment on the possibilities of this season's team, Father Herlihy did emphasize the need of continuous practice for the players to enable them to enter the opening contest in December with some experience and in perfect condition.

Loyola College changed the Moderator of Athletics on August 30, when the Rev. John M. Jacobs, S. J., was transferred to New York, and the Rev. William V. Herlihy, S. J., was appointed his successor. The Very Rev. Edward B. Bunn, S. J., President, announced the change.

Father Jacobs came to Evergreen in 1934, shortly after football had been abandoned. On his arrival he found a narrow athletic program, with basketball as the only intercollegiate sport in which there was any amount of student interest.

Expanded Sports Program

This energetic moderator, with the aid of three athletic directors during his unusually long tenure of office at Loyola, steadily expanded the sports program of the college until it consisted of seven major intercollegiate sports: basketball, baseball, golf, tennis, track, lacrosse, and soccer.

Walter A. (Tony) Comerford and Bill Liston were the athletic directors during the early part of Father Jacobs' stay. They were succeeded by Emil (Lefty) Reitz in 1937, who coached many championship baseball and basketball squads. Lefty left Loyola in March to serve in the Navy and is now stationed at Penn State College, training Navy V-12 units.

Kept Hounds Competing

Despite the manpower shortage caused by the war, Father Jacobs kept the college competing in all of the above mentioned sports except soccer, which was dropped from the roster in 1942.

He was also responsible for adding much physical equipment to the sports department.

New Moderator

Father Herlihy, Prefect of Discipline and Professor of Theology, has already drawn up a sports program for the coming year.

Father Jacobs was made Assistant-procurator at St. Francis Xavier High School in New York City, while his position as treasurer of Loyola has been taken over by the Rev. William F. Maloney, S. J., Professor of Theology.

Gisriel Rows On Crew At Great Lakes NTS

Early this month Tom Gisriel, the mainstay at center on last year's victorious basketball squad, visited the College during his leave after finishing his boot training at Great Lakes. He enlisted in the Naval Radio Technician Program last June.

While at this Chicago training center, Tom captained the basketball squad of his company. He also was stroke on the port side of the Regimental Boat team.

Returning to Great Lakes, Gisriel was placed in an Outgoing Unit, waiting to be sent to the Eddy School at Chicago. From there he will be transferred to some advanced Radio School in the country.

Running With The Hounds

By Bill Meyer

Loyola College has experienced the second drastic change in the Athletic Department in the past six months, with the announcement of the transfer of the Rev. John M. Jacobs, S. J., to St. Francis Xavier's High School in New York City.

Early in March, Coach Lefty Reitz entered the Navy at the conclusion of last year's successful basketball season. This left Father Jacobs solely in charge of athletics. In the Spring he obtained the coaches for baseball and allowed lacrosse to continue, even though intercollegiate competition was dropped.

His successor, the Rev. William V. Herlihy, S. J., will undoubtedly prove a competent athletic moderator. Although Father Herlihy has not had wide experience in personal participation in sports, he is very ambitious and energetic in his new assignment.

At present he has reorganized the Block L Club, having Tim Parr, the president of the Athletic Association, issue new membership cards and revamp the membership charges. He was also instrumental in producing the Block L social last week, at which he awarded the letters to students participating in baseball, tennis, and lacrosse.

While the present basketball outlook is not as bright as that of past seasons, the chief support will come from the experienced members of the B squad. Of the greatest freshmen-studded basketball team which Lefty ever coached, only three men are back this year, Sal Cammarata, Jerry Cohen, and Earl Brannan. The college has lost some of the best potential players in Jim Lacy, Gene O'Connor, Ed McGarry, Dutch Mohler, Tom Gisriel, Bill Schanberger, Neil Cole, and Bill Davis. With three more years of action, this combination could easily have defeated all competition in the Mason-Dixon Conference and taken the play-offs.

However, Frank Cashen, Bill Hodges, Don Giblin, Tim Parr, and Ed Fleishman, will supply much needed assistance on the court. Hodges specializes in lay-up shots, while Cashen and Giblin perform their ball-handling duties especially well.

From the Freshman Class many have started practice with some high school experience. George Lochner, Bill Cahill, Johnny Mudd, and Charlie Funk, all from Towson Catholic High School, are included among the prospects.

The chief handicap this year will be the lack of collegiate experience. But this deficit can be partially made up by the earnest support of the student body.

Foreign Correspondent Reports:

German Terror Not Forgotten In Italy

By Pvt. Raymond Whitehead, USA
Somewhere in Italy:

This evening I visited the Concas (an Italian family) again. We drew chairs up close to the fire of small twigs in the hearth. Signora Conca was rocking her eleven-month-old baby Bruno. The atmosphere was laden with the fragrance of simple, happy family life and love.

Signore Rocco, the father, had already retired, and with him had also trooped off to bed little Maria, Carmela, and Sennaro. Assunta, the eldest daughter, sat in the room with Signora Conca and me.

After a short conversation I asked them how they had fared while the hated Tedeschi were there. The Signora started the story, but soon turned it over to Assunta. She opened her eyes, drew in a short breath, and commenced the account.

Before the Germans left the vicinity, they became ruthless. It was the signal for the frightened young women of the village to stay out of sight. Assunta, only 18 years old, smeared her face with dirt, disheveled her dark hair, put a shawl over her head, dressed in a long black gown, and, disguising herself as an old woman, took refuge in one of the mountains above the town.

The ascent was an arduous one, and the sharp rocks made it very painful for her torn and bruised feet. Tears of pain and fright did not offer any help or consolation.

Every week she came down for food for her mother who stayed in the house. Added to their plight was the ever-recurring sickness that haunted the abode. One of her brothers, Francesco, a youth of fifteen, fled up another mountain, but the Germans happened to scour it, and finding his refuge killed him. Fortunately the Germans did not find Assunta on the other mountain.

One week, when she came down to the village for food, she and her mother heard two German soldiers entering the gate below.

Hurriedly her mother thrust the infant Bruno into Assunta's arms. Her father Rocco hid in the small space below the oven. The two soldiers burst in and demanded that her father be delivered to them. But the girl with the infant in her arms, her eyes inflamed with hysterical tears, exclaimed that her father wasn't there and moaned for her little Bruno.

The soldiers seemed convinced that the girl was the mother of the child. Signora Conca snatched up a couple of eggs and thrust them upon the Germans, who being satisfied, withdrew from the house.

Rocco came out of his hiding place, and Assunta again repaired to the mountain.

The ruse had worked, and the family was saved. Assunta's account moved me deeply, and I felt a wave of pity surge through me for her.

Much to the family's relief, the Germans moved out shortly. Assunta came back down from the mountain and things returned to normal.

It was getting late. The fire was now merely a heap of glowing embers. Signora Conca had dozed off into slumber.

I glanced at Assunta and told her I must be leaving. My half-empty glass of wine was refilled and I drank it standing. A few words of parting, with the entreaty to return the next night—the words were spoken softly, and at the gate below I said good night to them.

Along the road to camp, in the darkness, I thought peacefully of these people and breathed a prayer for them. The noises at the camp intruded upon my reverie . . .

Two Alumni Listed War Casualties

One Loyola alumnus has been reported missing, and another is listed as wounded in action, by the Navy Department.

Lieut. (j.g.) John L. Robinson, '41, USNRAF, is missing in the Pacific Theatre of operations.

Ensign David H. Tilley, '39, USNR, was wounded in action during the campaign for Saipan on June 27.

Prominent In Sodality

While at Loyola College, Lt. Robinson was a member of the Sodality Sanctuary Society, Social Science Club, and was also active in intramural soccer. He received his A. B. degree in 1941.

He was a member of a Civilian Pilot Training class at Loyola. After graduation, he joined the Navy and received his wings in the Naval Air Corps at Pensacola, Florida. Later he was sent as an instructor to Anacostia Naval Air Base.

Managed Basketball Team

Ensign Tilley was a member of the Sodality and of the Chemistry Club for four years. He was manager of the varsity basketball squad in 1939, and also distinguished himself in varsity hockey. He received his A. B. degree in 1941.

Enlisting in the Navy two years after his graduation, Ensign Tilley participated in several battles in the South Pacific before Saipan. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Tilley, live at 5109 Midwood Ave.

Over 900 In Service

As of this publication, the total number of Loyola men in the service is approximately 950. Fifteen have been killed, five are missing, and four are prisoners of war. For every alumnus who is killed in action, a gold star is added to Loyola's service flag.

Two Masses are offered weekly in the students' chapel at Evergreen for alumni in the armed forces. On Thursday the Mass is said for the repose of the souls of the alumni who have made the supreme sacrifice. On Friday the Mass is said for the safety of Loyola's 950 alumni in the service of their country.

Loyola Faculty Discusses U.S. Relations With Soviet

The newly formed faculty group at Loyola cooperating with the Universities Committee on Post-War International Problems has just completed its first series of discussions on the problem of "Post-War Relations with The Soviet Union". The discussion centered around a series of questions presented to the group by the Executive Secretary of the Universities Committee, Leland M. Goodrich.

These questions, contained in the monthly publication of the Committee, were discussed in detail at several meetings. The Loyola Cooperating Group then prepared its conclusions in the following form and transmitted them to the Boston headquarters of the Committee for the preparation of the joint report to be published in the near future.

Post-War Relations With The Soviet Union

1. The policy of the U. S. S. R. in post-war years will be conditioned chiefly by the spirit of Nationalism, a patriotic "Russian" revival born of the years of war and suffering since 1941. Beyond this fundamental Nationalism will be a resurgence of the notion of Pan-Slavism, the dream of a Slavic Eastern Europe within, or in league with, the Soviet Union.

This Nationalist and Pan-Slavist Soviet Union will be chiefly concerned with problems of military security, economic reconstruction and political dominance in Eastern Europe, in the pursuit of which ends she will be somewhat limited and determined by the demands of Britain and the United States, from whom she will require goods and capital for reconstruction.

Comintern Subordinated

The desire to spread Communism throughout the world, while not necessarily abandoned, will however be subordinated to the above immediate ends.

2. Of the possible alternative policies for the U. S. S. R. to follow, we may reasonably expect her to choose International Cooperation as the most logical, provided the Soviet is assured that the International Organization is sufficiently strong to guarantee her security and sufficiently agreeable to Soviet ideas of dominance in Eastern Europe.

If collective security proves too weak, or if the International Organization seems hostile to Soviet ideas and purposes, she may be expected to resort to power politics and alliances to secure her ends. Isolationism and active Soviet Interventionism in other states seem remote from her plans.

Joint Consultation Urged

3. With regard to the various territorial demands that the Soviet has made and may be expected to make in Eastern Europe, the United States should not make any advance commitments, and in any case should insist on settlement through joint consultation of the United Nations concerned, and on the basis of the right of self-determination of the peoples and regions in question.

In this case, as in all other cases of self-determination, no new states should be tolerated unless they can be proven to be feasible, actually viable states, and willing to submit to membership in the proposed International Organization, accepting the economic controls to be established by that body.

Treatment Of Germany

4. With regard to Soviet proposals for the post-war treatment of Germany we recommend the following:

a. The zones of occupancy and temporary government should follow the general lines of actual conquest, but such occupancy and government (after the actual ending of hostilities) must be subject to effective authority of a joint control commission which shall be able to observe and "control" such occupying government in accordance with the broader plans of the United Nations.

b. Action against war criminals is necessary, but must not be permitted to become an abuse. The term "criminal" should be limited to those who, with power of choice, violated the Geneva Convention on conduct of war and treatment of civilians, prisoners, etc. They should be afforded a civil trial in open court; and the same standards

College Forms Universities Committee Group

Loyola Faculty Discusses U.S. Relations With Soviet

A cooperating group of the Universities Committee on Post-War International Problems has been founded at Loyola College.

This Committee is sponsored by the World Peace Foundation and has groups in approximately fifty American colleges and universities. Its purpose is to bring together the members of the faculties of every important college in the United States to exchange ideas on the problems of the Post-War World and thus to form opinions held by the majority of the country's educators.

Committee Members Named

The members of the Loyola Committee are: the Very Rev. Edward B. Bunn, S.J.; the Rev. Joseph A. d'Invernizzi, S.J.; the Rev. Thomas P. Higgins, S.J.; the Rev. Paul J. Gibbons, S.J.; the Rev. William V. Herlihy, S.J.; the Rev. Matthew G. Sullivan, S.J.; the Rev. Joseph K. Drane, S.J., and Dr. Edward A. Doehler.

At the headquarters of the Committee in Boston a subject is selected for discussion every month. The cooperating groups in the various member colleges meet one or more times until a conclusion has been reached on the aspects of the topic.

Reports Publicized

At the end of the month, the secretary of the group sends a report to the headquarters of the Committee, and the findings of the groups are published and made known to Congress. The report is published in the monthly magazine International Conciliations.

The subject under discussion for the month of September is "Post-War Relations With Soviet Russia". In October "Post-War Relations With the British Commonwealth" will be considered.

Committee One Year Old

The Universities Committee is a little over a year old. Loyola was represented at the semi-annual regional meeting which was held at Princeton University on June 17-18 by Fr. Bunn and Dr. Doehler.

Other colleges represented at this meeting included: Bryn Mawr College, Dartmouth, Georgetown University, Hood, New York University, University of Pennsylvania, Princeton, and the University of Virginia.

Meets Weekly

The Loyola College group meets weekly on the campus at Evergreen. Dr. Doehler, Professor of History at Loyola, is Secretary of the group, and records the results of the discussions which are forwarded to the national headquarters.

"The Constitutional Aspects of a United States Participation in an International Organization," a subject under much discussion as a result of the World Security Conference at Dumbarton Oaks, will be considered at a coming meeting.

Ralph Barton Perry is Chairman of the Universities Committee, and Leland M. Goodrich is director of the World Peace Foundation, the organization which is sponsoring the Committee.

Colleges Express Opinions

"By means of this organization," said Dr. Doehler recently, "the colleges of America are able to combine their influence and thus have a greater voice in Post-War International Problems."

Post-War Relations With The Soviet Union

1. The policy of the U.S.S.R. in post-war years will be conditioned chiefly by the spirit of Nationalism, a patriotic "Russian" revival born of the years of war and suffering since 1941. Beyond this fundamental Nationalism will be a resurgence of the notion of Pan-Slavism, the dream of a Slavic Eastern Europe within, or in league with, the Soviet Union.

This Nationalist and Pan-Slavist Soviet Union will be chiefly concerned with problems of military security, economic reconstruction and political dominance in Eastern Europe, in the pursuit of which ends she will be somewhat limited and determined by the demands of Britain and the United States, from whom she will require goods and capital for reconstruction.

Comintern Subordinated

The desire to spread Communism throughout the world, while not necessarily abandoned, will however be subordinated to the above immediate ends.

2. Of the possible alternative policies for the U. S. S. R. to follow, we may reasonably expect her to choose International Cooperation as the most logical, provided the Soviet is assured that the International Organization is sufficiently strong to guarantee her security and sufficiently agreeable to Soviet ideas of dominance in Eastern Europe.

If collective security proves too weak, or if the International Organization seems hostile to Soviet ideas and purposes, she may be expected to resort to power politics and alliances to secure her ends. Isolationism and active Soviet Interventionism in other states seem remote from her plans.

Joint Consultation Urged

3. With regard to the various territorial demands that the Soviet has made and may be expected to make in Eastern Europe, the United States should not make any advance commitments, and in any case should insist on settlement through joint consultation of the United Nations concerned, and on the basis of the right of self-determination of the peoples and regions in question.

In this case, as in all other cases of self-determination, no new states should be tolerated unless they can be proven to be feasible, actually viable states, and willing to submit to membership in the proposed International Organization, accepting the economic controls to be established by that body.

Treatment of Germany

4. With regard to Soviet proposals for the post-war treatment of Germany we recommend the following:

a. The zones of occupancy and temporary government should follow the general lines of actual conquest, but such occupancy and government (after the actual ending of hostilities) must be subject to effective authority of a joint control commission which shall be able to observe and "control" such occupying government in accordance with the broader plans of the United Nations.

b. Action against war criminals is necessary, but must not be permitted to become an abuse. The term "criminal" should be limited to those who, with power of choice, violated the Geneva Convention on conduct of war and treatment of civilians, prisoners, etc. They should be afforded a civil trial in open court; and the same standards should be applied to criminals on both sides of the present conflict.

c. No German territory should be taken except in keeping with the conditions of No. 3 above, regarding self-determination.

Should Get Reparations

d. As a devastated country, the Soviet should be entitled to reparations confined within "definite" limits, payable either in goods or in services, at the discretion of Germany, so long as their payment or the choice of the manner of payment is consonant with her continuance as a cooperating member of the Post-War organization of International security (i.e. does not ruin her as a state).

e. The form of Germany's post-war government will be a purely German matter, except that such government must be able and willing to fulfill the obligations of membership in the International Security Organization to be established, and that her foreign policy be subject to the International Organization until such time as she gives conclusive evidence of her peaceful intentions.

Demands Unnecessary

5. With reference to possible Soviet demands for "strategic frontiers" and a special Soviet "zone of safety", it is felt that such demands are unnecessary and incongruous in the light of the formation of a real organization of collective security. Boundaries should be drawn according to right as decided by self-determination, and security should be based on the "system of security".

To demand such "strategic frontiers" or "zones" despite the principle of self-determination bespeaks a mistrust of the security system prior to its inception and must not be countenanced.

Friendly Cooperation Urged

6. Friendly post-war cooperation between the Soviet Union and the United States is essential to peace and world security. Such cooperation will depend upon the attitude of each power toward the other and toward the International Organization to be established. In order to further such cooperation:

a. The Soviet must make clear and real its honest policy of non-intervention in the affairs of other powers, both directly and indirectly through such groups as the former Communist International; she must make effective guarantees of "freedoms" to her own citizens; after the ending of German hostilities she should show a willingness, if necessary, to aid the other United Nations in shortening the war with Japan, preferably by assistance short of the actual use of Soviet troops; she should relax her former policy of secretiveness in international dealings, and decide to cooperate in world affairs on a basis of other than merely selfish (Russian) interests.

Part of United States

b. The United States should do its share by clarifying the following points: While decrying the notion of "great powers" ruling the earth as the starting point of power politics and future wars, we are willing to admit that the U. S. S. R. is a nation capable of exercising great economic power in the post-war world, and to afford to her the same recognition as a sovereign state that we expect her to grant to all other states.

We should further insist that any resurrection of anti-Soviet policy on our part will result only from, and will follow immediately upon, a resurrection of former obnoxious Soviet practices and policies. Finally the United States should clearly proclaim and take effective steps toward the earliest possible participation in the proposed world security organization, so as to put an end to any groundless fears of our return to isolation.

Topic For October

During October the topic under consideration is "Post-War Relations With the British Commonwealth of Nations". In view of the generally accepted belief that an essential condition of peace is a reasonable understanding between the two great English-speaking peoples of the world, this topic has more than ordinary importance and interest.
